

Friday, May 15th

PK3

Religion: We will review our “Angel of God” prayer. We will also review the words and the motions for the “Our Father. Tomorrow we are going to have an add-in prayer for all of the doctors, nurses and ambulance drivers who are working endless hours to save lives. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=uL1a2HON4Z4>

Math: Continue to look for examples of things that come in “pairs.” There are actually many more than I originally thought! I will share more examples of these in our lesson.

Optional: You might choose to assemble a few paired groupings and to photograph/tape yourself and post it on Seesaw, I would love to see your creativity.

Science: Please be sure to watch the YouTube video that I sent to you yesterday about how the people pulled together to rescue the otters and giant sea birds and ducks.

Dawn dish soap, warm water, kind-hearted people and determination made that all possible. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=eWUIKmxoZ6k>

ELA: In our video I will read the story of “Little Bitty Mousie” in its entirety. Sit back and listen to one of our favorite stories of all! We will revisit all of our alphabet while learning about the entire travels of Mousie (deep in the night while the family slept.)

Please complete the Seesaw activity wherein you can search for the Letter Z.

Music Practice: We will sing “The Yellow Submarine” so have your simple instruments ready to play!

PK4

Take today to catch up on any activities or assignments you haven’t had a chance to do. Here are a couple of fun activities for the preschoolers to do today.

Take a field trip to the farm. What is your favorite animal and why?

<https://youtu.be/Hg2ZX0PF-jl>

Count to 100 by 1’s and 10’s

On Seesaw complete the pajama day activity.

Art: Hi, guys! I thought it would be fun to think about how we are feeling today. What better way is there to look at feelings than with Emojis? I found a few Emoji crafts for you. Visit

LIBRARY: The original authors of many of our beloved fairy tales were the Brothers Grimm. One of their most well-known fairy tales is The Frog Prince. Although in our modern versions the frog becomes a prince because of a kiss by a princess, the original story is somewhat different. Try closing your eyes to listen (the link says it is about Princess Diana, but clicking takes you to the Frog Prince story):

2nd Grade

This is a day to catch up with anything you need to be caught up on! We only have about two more weeks of assignments before second grade is done!

Religion: If you did not see the May Crowning ceremony on Facebook from Wednesday, May 13, please check it out. Ethan did an AMAZING job!

ELA: Please check that you read assignments in Epic, and also assignments on IXL

Math: Please make sure that you are caught up on www.iknowit.com. We have started learning about measurement and did a section on bar graphs.

Science/Social Studies: Please make sure you are caught up on www.readworks.org. FYI, on yesterday's assignment on migratory birds, it was just a reading assignment, there were no questions assigned.

Have a wonderful weekend!

Specials: Art: Hello, soon to be freshmen! I was thinking back to when my kids were in high school and remember how they were always assigned projects as part of their learning. High School teachers like creative projects that present information in interesting ways. Then I came across an agamograph!! These interesting things were created by an Israeli artist named Yaacov Agam. (get it? agamograph?) I was thinking how effective one of these might be as a visual aide. Maybe for a compare/contrast thing? Visit www.jennyknappenberger.com. Search for "Emoji Agamograph". This one is emojis, but you could really make any two pictures you wanted. Keep this one in your hip pocket for when you need something creative and interesting.
